An experienced, award winning, Journalist, Producer/Director and Media Trainer/Educator who has worked across a wide range of factual genres. Confident with high profile productions and clients, I have over 15 years of experience of producing films for flagship investigative strands worldwide. As well as ethnographic research for both the central govt (UK) and global brands.

Having gained invaluable experience, my desire to partake this knowledge led me to spearhead roles within investigative journalism training (design/delivery) and the mentoring of new aspiring and experienced journalists globally in the areas of development and investigative specialisms. I have extensive experience of managing/delivering both media training and academic teaching including my current role of Course Director for UK broadcaster Channel 4's Masters in Investigative Journalism at De Montfort University.
