Paper I(2hrs) Preparatory work (1hr) + Paper II (2 hrs) + Preparatory work (1hr) + Coursework

Introduction

The syllabus is designed to encourage the candidate to use the intuitive and reasoning faculties and develop creativity. This is expected to be the foundation for further studies. It is concerned with developing skills leading to the expressive process. This is the process through which the individual develops his or her ideas from the initial stimulus through to the final realisation of the created form. Enhancing the role to art through discovering and exploring cross-curricular links is also an important aspect of this syllabus.

Aims

The syllabus aims at stimulating and developing:

- a) intuition, imaginative and reasoning abilities
- b) critical and analytical faculties
- c) an experimental, reflective, and innovative approach through research and inventive use of materials and techniques
- d) the ability to clarify priorities, knowing what is to be expressed and making effective responses
- e) an understanding of the nature of visual thinking and of the appropriate skills for creative thought and action
- f) perception, understanding, and expression of concepts and feeling in visual and tactile form
- g) response to sensation/experience through concept formation in terms of ideas, thinking, feeling and remembering
- h) acquisition of a correct terminology relevant to art.

- e) ability to review, modify and refine work as it progresses

Subject Content

The Aims and Assessment Objectives of the Syllabus determine subject Content. The following Assessment Criteria interpret the Subject Content and enable the candidates to meet the full range of Assessment objectives set by the syllabus.

Paper IIB (40 marks) – 2 hours plus 1hour allowed for preparatory work. Preparatory work is to be handed in with finished work.

Outline of Assessment Procedure

The assessment procedure is designed to take into account a wide range of activities including Coursework, comprising a Final Project, and the two formal papers; Paper I and Paper II.

Coursework, including the Final Project.

The Coursework should provide the candidates with the opportunity to research, develop, and realise ideas in a variety of ways, within the context of a planned sequence of experiences. The Final Project is expected to be a thematic enquiry and an expressive response showing sequential development. This development should demonstrate how a systematically structured Final Project affected cumulatively shows the candidates' knowledge, understanding, and skills. The theme for the Final Project may be determined by the teacher or student or negotiated by the teacher and student. The theme should be clearly defined and inserted in a separate folder in the portfolio. The Final Project should be accompanied by the Art Project Sheet which is to be inserted in the Portfolio.

The Final Project is to be integrated with the Coursework giving the candidate ample time to develop study skills in investigation, documentation, experimentation, and realisation. The Final Project should show evidence of a meaningful response to social, cultural, literary, historical or environmental stimuli. Notes about the work of relevant artists and/or about aesthetic decisions taken by the candidate can also be included in the Portfolio with the Final Project. These notes will contribute positively to the grade if they help to communicate the candidate's ideas, sources of inspiration and observations in ways that complement the visual work. Information about artists should not simply be copied or downloaded from published or Internet sources but should be a personal account of the candidate's response to the works of these artists.

The Coursework, including the Final Project, is to be presented in one portfolio, and will be assessed by the teacher and moderated by the markers' panel. This will give the teacher an increasingly determining participation in the assessment procedure and enhance his/her role. The Coursework should be the result of a selective process and contain a wide range of practices, interests and the use of different media. It should also show a familiarity with art history and appreciation.

The Portfolio including the Final Project is to be available at the candidate's schools for moderation by the Markers' Panel.

Private Candidates.

The Private Candidate is required to submit the Portfolio, including Coursework and Final Project, to the MATSEC Examination Board for assessment by the Markers' Panel as instructed by the Matsec Support Unit. In the case of a candidate failing the examination, the Coursework and Project may be submitted for another SEC examination session. Private candidates may seek the assistance of an art tutor in one of the schools in Malta

The portfolio must be presented in one standard folder provided by the Matsec Board against payment. Candidates are to fill in all details on folder. Presentation work should be effective and simple. Whilst good presentation is obviously an important asset, candidates should keep in mind that their work should fit in comfortably within the portfolio.

Candidates may be called for an interview relating to the Portfolio of work and Final Project.

Examination

Paper I: Work from observation in a formal examination of two hours plus one-hour preparatory work. This paper has 2 options 1 (a) Still-Life, composed of Man/Made & Natural forms, 1 (b) the Human Figure.

Paper IIA: Composition from a theme. This is a two-hour paper. An extra hour is allowed for preparatory work. Candidates are issued with three general themes, three weeks in advance. Two focused questions about each theme will be set in the examination i.e. six questions in all. During the examination the candidates are expected to answer only one question.

The candidate is expected to use the three weeks for investigation, research, experimentation and development of forms and ideas related to the chosen theme. The candidate will thus be preparing herself/himself for the examination question. During these three weeks, candidates should prepare sketches in any medium related to one or more than one of the general themes. These sketches should be the candidate's own work and should be on three sheets of paper that do not exceed 25cm by 35cm in size. Under no circumstances should the total number of papers exceed three. These sheets will be brought into the examination room and can be used as a basis for developing the preparatory work (during the first hour of the examination) prior to starting the final piece. The final work by the candidate should not be a copy of the sketches but should seek to develop and modify the candidate's ideas. All sketches and preparatory work will be collected by the invigilator/s. No sketches will be allowed out of the examination room.

Paper IIB: Composition from a theme. This is a two-hour paper. An extra hour is allowed for preparatory work. The tasks posed, however, present fewer difficulties than those in Paper IIA. Candidates are issued with three general themes, three weeks in advance. Two focused questions about each theme will be set in the examination i.e. six questions in all. During the examination the candidates are expected to answer only one question.

Full colour must be used in at least one of the two papers. Full colour does not include work in pencil, charcoal, sepia and any other monochromatic medium. (i.e. Paper 1 and Paper11 A/B)

The candidate is provided with an A3 paper and may choose to work to any size as long as the area of the work is not smaller than half the paper.

If paint is used it must be of a quick drying nature. Pastel, chalk and charcoal must be fixed.
