

Celina Pace BSc

Research Scientist
Medichem
Malta

Personal Profile

Celina studied for a BSc at the University of Malta and following her graduation she took up a job as a research scientist at Medichem, a relatively new pharmaceuticals company supplier in Malta.

Celina was very helpful when we had to advertise the TV series, by letting us use her image on billboards across the island. She is a fun-loving and lively person and the photographer enjoyed working with her enormously.

Here she is explaining her work to Theresia.

Research Profile

Celina's work at Medichem involves testing the compounds produced – in terms of quality control and more importantly finding new chemical methods of deriving the required pharmaceutical products.

To some extent her job can be likened to chemical detective work.

Relevant Links or info

Further information about Medichem view <http://www.medichem.es/index.php>